

Keeping safe.

You are our community and our friends. Friends look out for one another, and they are always honest with each other. Today, we have to be very honest with you. We don't know how the public health situation is going to play out over the next months.

What we do know is that this virus is serious, and it is gathering pace.

So, in the spirit of honesty and care, Wildland has taken the difficult decision to close all our hospitality venues. We will keep this under continual review and hope to be open again soon.

This will be heartbreaking. Welcoming guests is our great joy. We hope, however, that this small sacrifice might be of some assistance to the bigger fight against this horrible virus. If you have a booking with Wildland, we will be in touch as soon as possible.

This, too, will pass. We will be back, and you will be most welcome. In the meantime, please keep safe, stay well, and look after each other.

With our best wishes -

The Wildland Team ♡
